About the café

Te Tuhi's café is Aotearoa's first training café for people with intellectual disabilities, run by Te Tuhi in partnership with Rescare Homes Trust and the University of Auckland.

The café project is a non-profit enterprise.

The café provides in-house training and supported employment for people with intellectual disabilities through a community-based programme. It serves barista-made coffee and a range of homemade cabinet food and made-to-order menu items. Vegetarian, vegan and gluten free options are available.

The café area is located within the gallery foyer and as such is part of a shared space used by the gallery, class students, independent groups and public visitors. With street frontage on busy Reeves Road, the café is ideally placed to become both a drawcard destination and a key venue for locals.

The café is currently open from Monday to Saturday 9am to 2pm. Opportunities exist for extended hours – an early-morning breakfast offer, or for evening opening that caters to classes, parties and events.

The café team includes the café manager, barista and/or cook, up to three trainees per day and a support worker for the trainees every day. The café manager role will include either the barista or the cook function.

About the role

This is an exciting opportunity to play a vital role in a café project which is generating interest across the country, within one of Aotearoa's best contemporary art galleries.

The café manager is a practical, hands-on role, with most of their working hours spent managing the overall running of the café and service area, providing barista and/or cooking services, overseeing the daily menu, and supporting and working with the trainees and support workers. Administration time is built-in for planning and ordering.

You will have sound knowledge of:

- Operational management
- Staff training
- Ordering and stock management
- Quality control
- Food and wage costing
- Hygiene, health & safety procedures
- Promotion & marketing

In addition, you will be proactively looking to make improvements and grow the business.

Hospitality management experience is essential and a qualification in Hospitality or Business is highly desirable. The successful candidate will have excellent barista skills and/or cooking skills and kitchen experience.

This role takes full responsibility for the day-to-day management of Te Tuhi's café, barista and food service, ensuring that all financial, legal, and health and safety obligations are met, operational standards adhered to, and that the ethos and culture of Te Tuhi is maintained throughout the service.

The role will also develop the café menu, with a core purpose of improving profitability and securing the long-term sustainability of the café.

Supporting the trainees and support workers to develop and use hospitality skills is a substantial component of the role. A background or interest in working with people with intellectual disabilities is desirable, however it is not a prerequisite as training will be provided by the University of Auckland and Rescare Homes Trust.
